Rhyming poem

Candy

Out of all the sweets I'd choose candy
When I'm grumpy it comes in handy

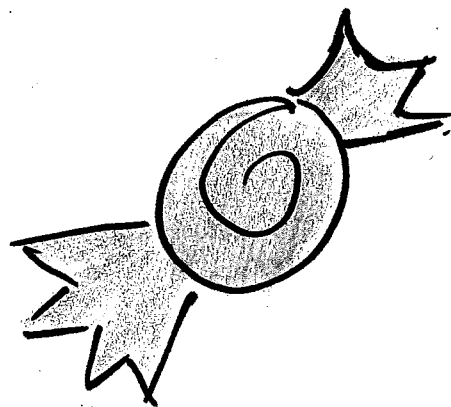

Minty, fruity

Chocolates a beauty

Toffee, gummies, bubble gum

Candy bars, I don't leave a crumb

Sugar and sweets don't keep me slim,
And that is why i go to the gym

Package deal

Roses and thorns
Weakness and might
Forest and wilderness
Stars and night

Rain and rainbows
Salt and pepper
Night and day
Sheep and their shepherd

Yin and yang
Fire and light
Lemons and lemonade
Friendships and fights

If you want one
You have to put up with the other
They're a package deal
They're always together

You can't have roses without thorns
You can't have fire without light
You can't have stars without dark
And friendships come with fights

-Rice, Rice Baby

All right start!

Grab the rice and listen

~~Rice is packed and put in the kitchen~~

Take a cab and "behold" it's Thriftys

Pick up a spoon, daily and nightly

Will I ever stop?

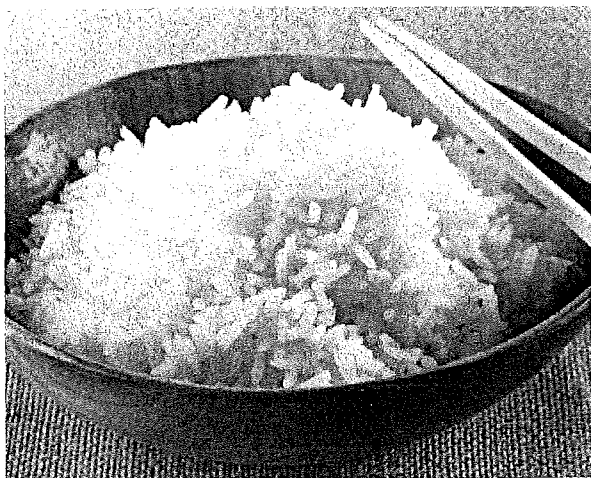

Yo, I don't know

~~Turn on the lights and I'll roast~~

To the steam, I eat rice by a candle

Heat up the pot

And mix out the clumps cause they're all vandals

Rice, rice baby

Rice, rice baby

Rice, rice baby

Rice, rice baby

Rap song

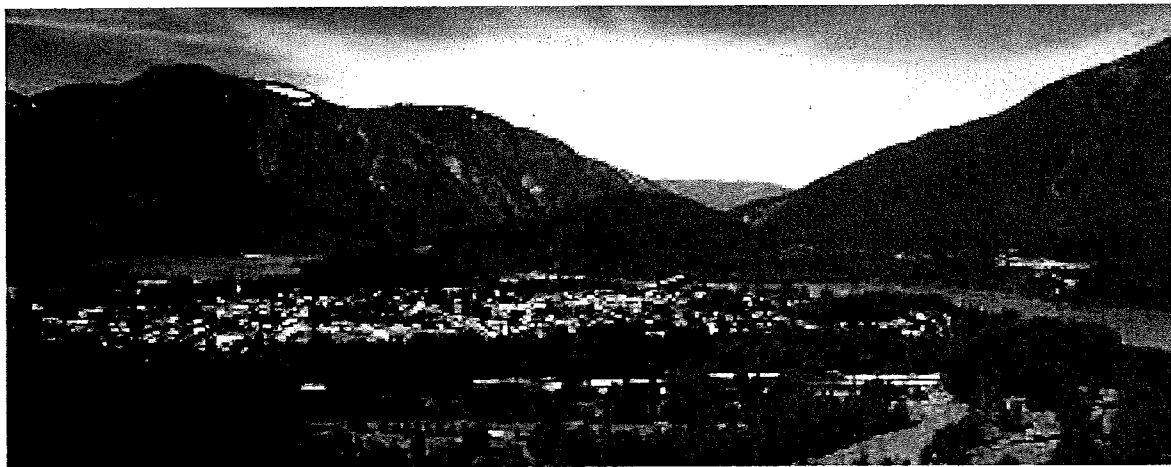

Hope

I used to live in Hope,
A town of shame,
There was nothing to do
and the days were lame.

All ways looking for something
but the whole town was nothing

Living in the hopeless town of Hope
Living in the hopeless town of Hope
The rivers are nice and the trees are cool
but staying there was for a fool

Living in the hopeless town of Hope
Living in the hopeless town of Hope

Every Day

Everyday it's the same
When I jump out of bed
The thoughts from the night before
Seem to have all gone to bed.

Then I carry on with my day
Ya it's no big deal
I go to school, I go to class
And get the homework spiel.

Then on the walk home
The thoughts start coming back
But I push them away
Successful new life hack.

Eat dinner, do homework
Get ready for bed
Jump in as the thoughts
Start flooding my head.

Question after question
Hour after hour
I finally get to sleep
Shoot, did I forget to have a shower?
